SECTION C – EssayInstructions for Section C

Section C requires a sustained expository response to one question.

In your response you are expected to

- demonstrate your ability to use relevant descriptive and metalinguistic tools;
- demonstrate familiarity with the topics of Unit 3 'Language Variation and Social Purpose' and the topics of Unit 4 'Language Variation and Identity'; and
- refer to the stimulus material provided.

Section C is worth 30 marks.

Select one of the three following topics. Refer to AT LEAST two subsystems of language in your essay and provide examples from current discussions about language that you have studied in class.

Question 7Stimulus

- a) "Sticks and stones will break my bones

But words will never hurt me"

Children's Nursery Rhyme

- b) "Snoop Dogg's lyrics glorify violence against women which puts all women in danger. His behaviour also contradicts our National Plan to Reduce Violence Against Women. As a society which claims to be serious about eradicating violence against women, there should be no place for recording artists who glorify misogyny and degrade women for entertainment. If you really care about women and girls, you will revoke his visa and deny him entry."

Petition to The Hon Scott Morrison MP, Minister for Immigration and Border <http://goo.gl/qnCUuT>

- c) Senator PERIS: Won't removing section 18C facilitate vilification by bigots?

Senator BRANDIS: People do have a right to be bigots, you know. In a free country, people do have rights to say things that other people find offensive, insulting or bigoted.

- d) "The message of Harmony Day is 'Everyone Belongs'. It is a day to celebrate Australia's diversity. It is a day of cultural respect for everyone who calls Australia home – from the traditional owners of this land to those who have come from many countries around the world. Kick-start conversations about belonging and promote Harmony Day on social media."

Question 8Stimulus

- a) "Kriol is still highly stigmatised and many Indigenous and non-Indigenous Australians believe it to be a 'corrupt', 'broken' or 'distorted' combination of English and/or various traditional languages. Linguists are working on Kriol dictionaries, producing Kriol literacy materials, running workshops etc., to help promote the importance and value of Kriol."

[Glossary 'Kriol': An Australian creole language that developed from a pidgin used in New South Wales, it has a distinct syntactic structure and grammar, and is, therefore, a language in its own right.]

- b) "The first hint that you might be dealing with a bogan is the speech pattern. Bogans speak in a different language – Boaglish – and shorten their words."

- c) "This course is ideal for anybody who would like to "polish" their English speaking skills to achieve ultimate clarity through perfect pronunciation, grammar, style and tone. You are never too young or too old to take elocution classes. In fact we've trained children as young as 5 to mature students in their 80s. Upon completion of your elocution training, you will have all the necessary tools to speak eloquently, but without sounding elitist. You will feel confident in any social or corporate setting."

- d) "It's neither jive talk nor "wogspeak" but somewhere between Lebanon and Australia, a new language has emerged. Invented by teenagers - the great linguistic super-spreaders - it is an intriguing new discovery about Sydney life. Linguists have dubbed it an ethnolect but among those who use it, it is called "Lebspeak".

Question 9

Stimulus

- a) 'One developer has found the perfect way to take advantage of Twitter's line breaks: haikus. Using the public Twitter stream and a Python tool that can determine the number of syllables in most English words, Brandon at h6o6 has found a way to collect the haikus hidden in plain sight on Twitter. Tweet Haikus.'

- d) 'I've never understood those who lament the internet as kind of death for the English language. Just look at the ways in which most of us, every day, use computers, mobile phones, websites, email and social networks. Vast volumes of mixed media may surround us, from music to games and videos. Yet almost all of our online actions still begin and end with writing: text messages, status updates, typed search queries, screens packed with verbal exchanges, and underpinning it all countless billions of words.'
